Ben Nelson

By Rowan Scarborough -

6:04 p.m., Thursday, March 18, 2010

The Obama administration has delivered another budget plum to Democratic Sen. Ben Nelson and the state of Nebraska, adding more than a half-billion dollars for a new veterans hospital in Omaha.

The move reverses a decision by Mr. Obama's own Veterans Administration of a year ago, which called for repairing an existing hospital.

The Veterans Administration made the budget switch during internal deliberations in 2009 at a time when the White House was wooing the moderate Democrat to vote for President Obama's health care overhaul bill.

Mr. Nelson was among the last of the Senate Democrats to sign on to the health bill, deciding to vote "yes" after securing special Medicaid payments for Nebraska in a deal known as the "Cornhusker Kickback." Health care reform opponents have widely panned that deal.

At the time that deal was being made, Mr. Nelson was getting another boost from the VA as it formulated its next budget.

Jake Thompson, a spokesman for Mr. Nelson, rejected the idea the new hospital was awarded in exchange for the senator's health care vote.

"It was never discussed," Mr. Thompson said. "He wasn't discussing the Omaha VA hospital in any relation to health care. The answer is no."

The spokesman added that Mr. Nelson "has been advocating [a new hospital] with this administration, with the previous secretary of the VA and the current secretary of the VA. But in relation to health care, it wasn't discussed at all. I think the VA's own study was the principal reason it was moved up" on the construction priority list.

But Rep. Steve Buyer of Indiana, ranking Republican on the Veterans' Affairs Committee, said, "This one doesn't smell right or feel right."

Mr. Buyer said testimony by VA officials to the Senate last August showed managers recommended renovation and some expansion of the existing Omaha site -- not an entirely new hospital at a much higher cost.

Let the Bribes Begin: Obama Offering Judgeships to Secure Health Care Votes

by Susan Anne Hiller

Yesterday, The Weekly Standard reported that President Obama hosted 10 Democrat House members at the White House last night:

Tonight, Barack Obama will host ten House Democrats who voted against the health care bill in November at the White House; he's obviously trying to persuade them to switch their votes to yes. One of the ten is Jim Matheson of Utah. The White House just sent out a press release announcing that today President Obama nominated Matheson's brother Scott M. Matheson, Jr. to the United States Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit.

Apparently, Obama thinks that Matheson's brother is qualified to become a federal judge:

"Scott Matheson is a distinguished candidate for the Tenth Circuit court," President Obama said. "Both his legal and academic credentials are impressive and his commitment to judicial integrity is unwavering. I am honored to nominate this lifelong Utahn to the federal bench."

Matheson's background reads:

Scott M. Matheson currently holds the Hugh B. Brown Presidential Endowed Chair at the S.J. Quinney College of Law, University of Utah, where he has been a member of the faculty since 1985. He served as Dean of the Law School from 1998 to 2006. He also taught First Amendment Law at Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government from 1989 to 1990.

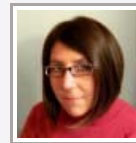

While on public service leave from the University of Utah from 1993 to 1997, Matheson served as United States Attorney for the District of Utah. In 2007, he was appointed by Governor Jon Huntsman to chair the Utah Mine Safety Commission. He also worked as a Deputy County Attorney for Salt Lake County from 1988 to 1989. Prior to joining the University faculty, Matheson was an associate attorney from 1981 to 1985 at Williams & Connolly LLP in Washington, D.C.

Matheson was born and raised in Utah and is a sixth generation Utahn. He received an A.B. from Stanford University in 1975, an M.A. from Oxford Seems that Matheson is hurdling a few career steps to become a judge. Wonder how his brother will vote now. After all, he did vote "no" the first time around on health care and the House is just not that fond of the Senate bill.

Give the guy five more minutes, I'm sure there is a vacant ambassadorship somewhere in the world!

These are the scummiest people to ever hold office in DC and not even Al Capone took this kind of bribery in his day but I'm sure Chairman O knows that.

The only thing more scummy than Chairman O offering the bribes are the Congressmen that sell their votes to take them...

Isn't this crap illegal? Isn't there some law which could be used to stop this and all the corruption going on? Or are we the people going to have to start making citizen arrests?

I just love how they release these "backgrounds". "He also worked as a Deputy County Attorney for Salt Lake County." Did he use croynism like Delahunt did to put a killer back on the street to kill some more? I'd like to know about some of the cases this guy worked on. He is clearly using croynism now. Seeing as Matheson apparently doesn't see any conflict of interest here where else in this guys career has he accepted graff?

This guy needs to be investigated to the hilt. Who knows what will be found by simply turning over a few stones in Utah. Do you hear me Senator Hatch?

As for Barry buying a vote with a judicial appointment, who is surprised??

Is there any chance this doesn't mean he agreed to be bribed in advance? Is there any chance that when the hearing comes up we will have him on the stand, and he'll tell the truth of why the timing is suspicious?

Clearly, the democratic congress is following Obama off the cliff because they believe they will be rewarded with cushy appointed positions in the future should they lose their seats. We need to remove ALL appointments like this to ensure no democratic congress can be bought, and impeach this judge if he wins approval.

To drain this swamp, cut all federal government pay and eliminate all political appointments. And heck, that's also the correct answer to reduce the debt, as well as the correct answer for allowing the private sector to thrive. Cut half the pay, half the benefits, and half the jobs.

We need to cut congressional pay and remove the Cadillac healthcare benefits from the compensation package. If we are to be expected to tolerate socialized medicine then these scumbags should lead the way.

We should also treat any house or senate member that gets voted out of office as having been FIRED! and that should mean the end the retirement pay and health benefits.

We also need to limit the congressional session to no more than 6 months and require that the remaining 6 months are spent talking to constituents and actually listening to what WE want done.

I think that the Jersey recall petition is a good start to draining this swamp and should be repeated in every state.

Why is anyone surprised about this. The entire health care process has been filled with bribes and payoffs. If this bill was actually as good as Obama, Pelosi and Reid are trying to claim most would have quickly jumped on board. This is Chicago politics at its finest. Why anyone thought that they would get honesty when they elected one who only knows the Chicago thug mentality is beyond me.

If something is unsolicited, can it still be considered a favor? Scott Matheson is a highly qualified individual, but the timing of this is way too suspicious. I'm sure Jim Matheson believes his brother deserves such a position, but talk about an unexpected "present". I'd like to believe that Jim did something to tick of POTUS enough that he heavy-handedly announced Scott's appointment prior to actually speaking with Jim. But maybe not. Either way, Jim Matheson is left holding a stinky bag...
